NEW DUAL LEADERSHIP

Sophia Greiff and Boaz Levin to lead exhibition program at C/O Berlin

C/O Berlin is delighted to announce that Boaz Levin will join the institution as a curator from mid-November 2023. He will form the dual leadership in the exhibition house's program department together with Sophia Greiff, who has been a curator and co-head of program at C/O Berlin since the start of 2023, and who has been leading the program on a missionary basis alone since July 2023. Levin takes over the position from Dr. Kathrin Schöneegg, who became head of photography at the Stadtmuseum in Munich in September 2023.

As a respected curator and writer, Levin brings a wealth of experience to the role. He has written for Camera Austria, Texte zur Kunst, and other journals, and has been an editor of Cabinet Magazine's "Kiosk" platform since 2020. Levin has also co-curated major international exhibitions including the 2017 Biennale für aktuelle Fotografie and the 2022 Chennai Photo Biennale. Together with Esther Ruelfs, he curated the groundbreaking exhibition Mining Photography: The Ecological Footprint of Image Production at Museum für Kunst und Gewerbe, Hamburg, in 2022, which traveled on to Kunst Haus Wien and is currently on view at Gewerbemuseum Winterthur. Levin worked with Dr. Schöneegg to curate C/O Berlin's current exhibition, Image Ecology. Moreover, he founded the Research Center For Proxy Politics at the Berlin University of the Arts in collaboration with Vera Tollmann and Hito Steyerl.

"With his passion for photography and his profound understanding of how documentary visual media, societal developments, and current image culture relate to one another, Boaz Levin is a real asset to our team. He will undoubtedly contribute to ensure that C/O Berlin continues mounting innovative and inspiring exhibitions with his broad expertise. We welcome Boaz Levin and look forward to a successful working relationship."

– Stephan Erfurt, CEO, C/O Berlin Foundation

"We are delighted to lead programming in the coming years for C/O Berlin, an open, societally engaged, and inclusive institution in which photography and visual culture in all their many forms are researched, questioned, and celebrated. As a private, charitable foundation anchored in Berlin's cultural scene for almost 25 years, C/O Berlin offers a unique forum for exploring pressing contemporary issues in dialogue with Berlin's diverse communities as well as on an international level."
